

GILLETT WINS ON FIRST BALLOT

LANGDON LEAGUE'S CHOICE

Hearst's Political Organization Names District Attorney for the Governorship.

FIRST CONVENTION HELD IN OAKLAND

Platform Declares for Municipal Ownership of Public Utilities and Pledge Candidates to Anti-Trust Crusade

OAKLAND, Sept. 6.—The first state convention of the Independence League of California opened here today, and nominated William H. Langdon, district attorney of San Francisco, for governor. After making the nomination for governor, and adopting a platform, the convention adjourned until tomorrow morning. About 160 delegates were present.

The platform, which is a lengthy one, declares that the league stands for independence in politics and for Americanism as laid down by Washington, Jefferson and Lincoln, and its purpose is to restore government by the people, for the people in its purity and efficiency.

The platform calls for the election of United States senators by the people; declares that the trust issue is the paramount issue of the day and pledges the league's candidates to a vigorous anti-trust crusade. It declares for the municipal ownership of public utilities; the abolishment of special privileges to corporations; favors a parcels post, good roads and improved water communications; favors measures to promote the cause of irrigation and calls for a revision and reformation of the water laws of the state.

BATTLESHIPS AT HOME STATIONS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—The navy department has decided to concentrate all the battleships in the navy on the home stations and to replace those on the Asiatic station with armored cruisers.

In accordance with this policy the battleships Ohio and Wisconsin, which have been Chinese waters for several months past, have started back to the United States. The Ohio sailed from the Foo yesterday for Hampton Roads. She will stop at Cavite and then cross the Indian ocean and proceed through the Suez canal and the Mediterranean. Her place as flagship has been taken by the auxiliary cruiser Rainbow. When the Ohio has been overhauled and repaired, she will be added to the battleship division of the Atlantic fleet. The Wisconsin is returning by the Pacific route. She arrived at Kobe, Japan, yesterday and from there will sail for Honolulu. She is bound for the naval station in Puget Sound.

The armored cruisers West Virginia, Colorado, Pennsylvania and Maryland will take the places of the Ohio and the Wisconsin. They will sail from New York in a few days, and will follow the Suez route.

SUICIDE TO UNITE THEM

Going Home to Die on Sweetheart's Grave.

Dramatic Scene on the Embarkation for Italy of a New York Steamer.

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—A dramatic scene occurred today on the French liner La Provence, just before she left for Havanna. Among the passengers were Luigi Contini, 34 years old, who was bound for his old home in Locco province of Lombardy, Italy, to keep a suicide pact to die on his sweetheart's grave.

A brother created the scene and afterwards told his brother's story. He says that Luigi became betrothed to Josephine Ballatini, a girl of his native town. Her parents opposed the match, preferring a wealthy suitor, and Luigi with his sweetheart's promise to keep faith, came to this country to seek his fortune. He established himself at Beaver Oklahoma, where he secured a farm. Then he wrote for Josephine to come, but she replied that she could not; that her parents forbade; that she intended to commit suicide and that she expected Luigi to come to her in death. News that the girl had carried out her promise followed, and Luigi sold his property at Beaver and started for Italy to kill himself on the girl's grave. His brother, Antonio, lives in Paterson, N. J., and Luigi went to him, told him the story and bade him farewell. Entreaties failed to swerve the man, and on the pier Antonio made his final appeal. He clung to his brother passionately, imploring him not to go. Luigi shook his head. Antonio then half dragged his brother to an open space on the pier, fell on his knees, raised a crucifix aloft, and renewed his pleadings. Luigi could not be moved, and finally turning his back on Antonio, went on board the vessel. When the steamer sailed, Luigi stood at the rail watching Antonio, who had again fallen on his knees and with outstretched arms was beckoning to his brother.

SEAGIRT, N. J., Sept. 6.—The national team match, which was started on Tuesday and finished late today, was won by the infantry of the United States army. The first prize consists of the national trophy, provided by congress, $300 in cash, and medals for the team members. Second prize, the Hilton trophy, $200 and medals, was won by the United States cavalry; third prize, the bronze soldier of Marathon, $150 and medals, by Massachusetts; fourth prize, $100 and medals for the team members, by New York; fifth prize, $75 and medals by the United States navy, and sixth prize, $50 and medals by the United States marine corps.

The match was won last year, in 1903 and 1904 by New York. The scores of the six prize-winning teams follow: 1, United States infantry, 3251; 2, United States cavalry, 3191; 3, Massachusetts, 3177; 4, New York, 3165; 5, United States navy, 3151; 6, United States marines, 3113.

Of the other thirty-five competitors, Oregon, with 2267, was twenty-first; California was twenty-fourth, with 2138. Nearly 800 entries have been received for the national individual match, which will be started tomorrow morning. The national pistol match will be the concluding event of the tournament. The indications are that the last shot may not be fired before Tuesday, although the meeting was scheduled to close today.

PATCHING UP PEACE

Liberals Make Demands Upon Cuban Government.

Still Retain Hopes of Being Able to Force the Resignation of Palma.

HAVANA, Sept. 6.—While the peace projects have caused a general suspension of revolutionary operations, no appreciable progress toward anything like a satisfactory understanding has been made. The liberal leaders insist that it is unjust to regard them as insurgents and insist that they are merely seeking peace. But they declare that not only must the terms be better than heretofore talked of, but that there must be some guarantee that the conditions will be carried out.

General Miquel was brought through the day holding conference. He said tonight he had no reason to be disappointed with the progress of the negotiations and that the semi-official suspension of hostilities which began today in Santa Clara and Havana province would be extended tomorrow to Pinar del Rio, giving the veterans a chance to rush negotiations for peace. The demands that come from the insurgents include the restoration of deserters from the rural guards to their former positions, the reinstatement of liberals who last year were deposed from municipal offices, the retention of arms by the insurgents and other equally radical propositions. The liberals have not yet relinquished the hope that they may be able to force the resignation of President Palma and all the high government officials. The succession of Vice President Menéndez Capote to the presidency is also discussed. The liberals seem to think they could reach an understanding with him. There is nothing to indicate that Menéndez Capote is a party to the project.

Many business men of Havana ridicule what they call a "patched up peace," which they allege can be only temporary.

MARLBHEAD, Mass., Sept. 6.—Today's race, the third of the series between German and American yachts for the Roosevelt cup, was won by Vim, owned by Commodore Park of the American Yacht club of New York. The Vim was also the winner of yesterday's race.

(Special Dispatch to the Republic.)
CASINO, Santa Cruz, Cal., Sept. 6.—The Fresno delegation is well pleased with the result of today's convention. The delegation's choice for governor, James N. Gillett, was nominated by acclamation. Other recognition was represented by Frank H. Short as chairman of the credentials committee and M. B. Harris as a member of the committee on order of business. It is a source of satisfaction that Gillett had enough votes without Ruef's San Francisco delegation. In fact, Ruef, considering his block of personally owned and personally conducted delegates, received scant consideration from the convention.

The whole San Joaquin valley, with the exception of Tulare county and three votes in Merced, was solid for Gillett. This promises to be the beginning of a movement for united action on the part of the great valley hereafter. The threatened opposition to Williams did not develop. In fact, the suggestion of McDougall did not meet with any enthusiasm among the San Francisco delegates.

Frank H. Short placed Williams in nomination. He said: "On behalf of Fresno county, on behalf of the central portion of the state and incidentally on behalf of 825 delegates, I desire to place before this convention the name of W. R. Williams for the office of state treasurer. Gentlemen, some few months ago when a disaster visited upon this state that caused sympathy, a sentiment of relief and a spirit of generosity to go around the world, I had the honor of being chosen chairman of the Fresno relief committee. In that capacity it became the duty to select somebody to receive contributions and desiring to select a man who was capable in handling money and property and who would work with energy and enthusiasm in a cause like that I named Mr. Williams as chairman of the committee to receive and ship the articles. Within six hours after he was appointed, seven carloads went out of that city for San Francisco. I think, my friends, that after twenty years' participation in California politics I have some judgment as to what is good politics from a popular and Republican point of view. I don't believe the Republicans ever trotted out a faster or better matched man than Gillett and Porter. While we listen, gentlemen, to eulogies of the snows of the north and the sunshine of the south, we should remember that this state would not go around if it did not have a center. Now come to the center and nominate our candidate, Mr. Williams."

(By Associated Press.)
SANTA CRUZ, Sept. 6.—As his lieutenant prophesied from the outset, Congressman James N. Gillett received the nomination for governor today at the hands of the Republican state convention. If there was any doubt as to the success of his candidacy it was removed early in the day, when the caucus of the San Francisco delegation was held, and word given out that it had decided to go to the congressmen from the north. While rapid changes were being made in the situation, J. O. Hayes announced that he had decided to withdraw from the fight, leaving the field open to Pardee and Gillett.

Warren Porter stood by the program framed several days ago, and was content to stand for the nomination for lieutenant governor. When the roll was called on the nomination for governor, it was found that Gillett had received 591 1-2 votes while Pardee had but 233 1-2 votes.

The convention in many respects was a remarkable one. While the program of the organization was faithful, it followed in most instances, numerous changes were made at the last moment, and candidates whose chances were believed to be brightest, lost when the final test came.

The great white tent in which the convention was held was the scene of all the struggles for nominations. Some of the hardest fights of the day were made for the justiceships of the district court of appeals and railroad commissionerships and side conventions for nominations for these officers were conducted at various appointed places about the city.

One of the most interesting battles of the day was that for the nomination for state superintendent of public instruction. State Superintendent Kirk withdrew from the fight for renomination and the place was sought by Edward C. Hyatt of Riverside, and Miss Kate Ames, county superintendent of Napa.

The contest of the young woman for the place was championed by Abe Ruef, and he instructed the San Francisco delegation to caucus in favor of Miss Ames. When the nominations for the office of superintendent of public instruction had been made, Ruef took the stand to second the nomination of Miss Ames. Although all the votes in the San Francisco delegation controlled by Ruef voted for Miss Ames, Hyatt was finally elected.

When Mayor Schmitz arrived at the convention hall and was escorted to the platform, there was considerable speculation as to whether some changes might not be made in the program on account of his presence. But while the mayor was greeted with hearty cheers, there was not the slightest change in the program on that account.

When the report of the committee on credentials was read by Frank H. Short of Fresno and was unanimously adopted. It provided that printed lists were to be added by in the seating of the delegates and that no proxies were to be allowed.

The report of the committee on order of business was presented by Edward Sweeney of Shasta and adopted.

THE NOMINATIONS.
SANTA CRUZ, Sept. 6.—When the time for nominating governor arrived, it was found that George A. Knight, who was to make the speech naming Gillett was not in the convention hall. It was afterwards found that it was Knight's intention to make the last speech, and he intended to give the chance for John A. Britton to place Pardee's name before the convention first. In nominating Governor Pardee, Britton said:

"Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen of the Republican State Convention:—In the name, in behalf of Alameda county, the radiant gem in the crown of Republicanism, and in response to the demand of the people of the empire state of the Golden West, I present to you for your choice as governor of this, the greatest commonwealth of the United States of America, that fearless champion of right, that stalwart man of the doctrines of Lincoln, Grant, Garfield, McKinley and Roosevelt, that leader of all the people, that man of unimpeachable integrity, and honor, that man who in the vernacular of the West, has 'come through and made good,' Governor George C. Pardee. When I stood upon the platform at Sacramento at the Republican convention of 1902 I proclaimed then that George C. Pardee had been loyal to his country, loyal to his people, loyal to his party, and that loyalty which prompted him in all the years of his life, in all the positions by which he was honored in municipalities, would still be the loyalty of him as your governor. I also stated that he was then the logical, the geographical and the practical choice of the people of this state for its leader."

"I am neither a prophet nor the son of a prophet, but the words which I uttered then were and have been prophetic in their tone. So in the exception of the grand standard-bearer of the party, Theodore Roosevelt, has ever approached nearer to the hearts of the people than Governor George C. Pardee has during the past four years. He has given the state the best administration, free from cliques, political and otherwise. He has been a man of, by and for the people. He has demonstrated their wants in every net of the legislature. He has been a governor of initiation; and not depreciation; he has been tried and not found wanting. We are told that the basest of sins is ingratitude. It cannot be possible that the people of the state of California represented by the delegates convened at this convention can be so lost to that sense of gratitude due to one who has built ed up the state of California in the past four years as to deny him the right and privilege of continuing stewardship during another four years."

Gillett Before the Convention.
"Ladies and Gentlemen of the Convention—James N. Gillett of Humboldt county is to be, and is presented as a candidate—the Republican candidate—for governor of the state of California. His nomination will not take by surprise any Republican of California. Now of national repute, in early life his one bank account was youth's ambition."

"In San Francisco on Labor day over 20,000 men marched in peaceful tread as exemplification of law, order and toil. They have shown they are the bone and sinew of nature and represent the Republican policy that working men should receive an honest day's pay. Gillett's record shows that he has always been the friend of the laboring man. After toiling at manual labor in early youth, he took up the law. Twice have you returned him to congress. He is alive to legislation that is of interest to California."

"For this reason I ask you now to nominate James N. Gillett as it is spelled on paper, but 'Jim' Gillett in the hearts of the people. He is not a jurist, but a real American citizen."

Congressman James McLaughlin of Los Angeles county took the platform at noon to second the nomination of Gillett. He said in part:

"The foothill joins hands with Humboldt county in asking that Gillett be named as the choice of this convention."

Gillett and Pardee were the only names presented to the convention for governor. The vote was: Gillett, 591 1/2; Pardee, 233 1/2.

Tumultuous applause, which lasted for several minutes, greeted the announcement that Gillett had been nominated.

John A. Britton, who nominated Pardee, moved that the nomination be made unanimous, and it was so ordered.

Nominated Justices.
Judge Ross of Santa Mateo nominated Justice F. W. Henshaw for associate justice of the Supreme court. William G. Lorigan for associate justice. The nominations were then closed and the secretary cast the ballot of the convention for these two. On the nomination of W. S. Wood of San Francisco, Judge M. C. Sloan was unanimously named for the unexpired term of associate justice.

Mr. Gillett was escorted to the platform by George A. Knight and John A. Britton. Gillett was greeted with vociferous applause. He said in part:

Gillett Thanks Delegates.
"Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen of the Convention—I desire first to express to you my sincere thanks for the honor you have conferred upon me. Also I desire to express thanks to my friends and neighbors who have had the honor of having a man from their midst named for governor for the first time. I accept this nomination with a full realization of the responsibility it implies. We may congratulate ourselves on the harmony that has prevailed in our ranks. This contest has been friendly on account of the high character of the men who have aspired to office. I thank you again for the great honor you have conferred upon me."

A recess was then taken until 3 o'clock this afternoon.

principles of the party as set forth and declared in the national platform of 1904.

Trust Faithfully Performed.
That we recognize that the people of the United States at the last presidential election committed to the Republican party, by unprecedented majorities, the entire control of the government and its affairs, and we challenge the naming of any particular in which this trust has not been well and faithfully performed. The first session of the fifty-ninth congress will go down in history as one of the most remarkable meetings of that body. It was called to meet many questions of the greatest possible importance, and it met them all with the single purpose of enacting that legislation which was best suited for the interests of the whole people. While to the members of the fifty-ninth congress we can and do award all credit for their commendable efforts in support of measures tending to the advancement of the interests of the people, still we must acknowledge that their efforts were at all times encouraged, supported and sustained by that great living exponent of American manhood and American statesmanship, Theodore Roosevelt.

Approval of Rate Bill.
We especially commend and acknowledge the action of congress and the president in the passage and approval of the so-called rate bill whereby it is designed to restrain the exactions of railroad corporations and to bring the regulation of rates within the jurisdiction of the Interstate Commerce commission.

We further recognize and commend the prompt, persistent and effective action of the president and his cabinet advisers in their efforts to bring to just punishment representatives of trust organizations who have been constantly evading the provisions of the laws.

California's Representatives.
We commend and heartily acknowledge the earnest and loyal efforts of our senators and representatives in congress in their efforts to secure proper legislation for this state. We recognize that all of them have been true to their trust and have not failed at any time in the performance of the full measure of their duties.

We hereby endorse and approve the conservative, economical and prudent management of state affairs by the present Republican administration of California.

San Francisco's Calamity.

To the president of the United States and his cabinet officers, to the members of congress, to the governing bodies of the various municipalities of the country and their citizens we now tender our overflowing and heartfelt thanks for their expressions of sympathy and leaders of substantial support to our beloved city of San Francisco in her hours of dismay and distress. Beyond all politics and standing upon the broad plane of common humanity, we, the Republicans of California desire to have the world know that we appreciate all that has been so lovingly done for us in this time of suffering. While it was expected that the great calamity which visited San Francisco would result in disturbance of its financial condition, yet the result has shown that the role of its banking institutions is sustained without question and that deposits are increasing beyond all expectation, showing, as we may be rightfully allowed to claim, great and healthy prosperity in the whole country, owing to the wise administration of the government under the beneficent policy of the Republican party.

Admit Building Material Free.
We favor the enactment by congress of an amendment to the existing tariff law providing as a measure of relief in San Francisco, that for the period of three years all building material may be admitted into that port free of duty.

We pledge our members of the legislature to pass such legislation, both remedial and by appropriation as may be necessary for the relief of San Francisco, under its present conditions.

Exclude All Asiatic Labor.
We cannot but feel in the increased influx to the Pacific coast of Japanese and other Asiatic laborers that the people of this state are being confronted with a greater evil than that which induced them to demand and secure the passage of the so-called Chinese exclusion law and we now urge our senators and pledge our candidates for representatives in congress to favor, support and by all honorable means to secure the passage of laws similar to the present Chinese exclusion bill providing for the exclusion of Japanese and all other kinds of Asiatic labor.

We further insist upon the continuance and rigid enforcement of the existing Chinese exclusion acts, and we insist that the present Asiatic people of our insular possessions shall not be permitted to come into the United States proper.

We favor the adoption of a tenement house law that will secure the necessities of light, air and sanitary conveniences to every inhabitant and prevent the formation in our cities of congested districts, dangerous to the life and health of the working people.

Arbitration in Disputes.
We recognize the rights of labor and of capital. We know that organized labor is the true and only way in which the rights of labor can be safeguarded and protected. Still it must always be recognized that the employer has rights which must not be completely ignored, and in this view the only reasonable way whereby to adjust unfortunate differences between employer and employee is by arbitration, and we urge our representatives in the legislature to pass such laws as will bring about arbitration whenever employer and employee differ as to the terms of employment.

Revision of Insurance Laws.
The developments in San Francisco since the great disaster in April have demonstrated the necessity for the revision of our insurance laws.

TWO WERE BURNED ALIVE

Eight Others Seriously Injured In Fire that Destroyed Santa Fe Station at Needles.

VICTIMS ASLEEP WHEN THE FIRE OCCURRED

Started in Bakery of Harvey Restaurant and Spread So Fast that Brigade Could Not Stop the Flames.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 6.—The Santa Fe passenger depot and railroad hotel at Needles, Cal., was destroyed by fire early today. Conductor F. M. Carter and Priscilla Bastian, a waitress, were burned to death. Several other employees of the Harvey restaurant were severely burned. The victims of the fire were asleep in the rooms set aside for employees, over the passenger station. The cause of the fire has not been ascertained. Owing to interruption of telegraphic communication details of the fire have not been received at Santa Fe headquarters in this city.

Considerable mail and baggage was destroyed. The building was a large wooden structure, the first floor being used as a passenger waiting room, Harvey restaurant and baggage and express store room. The Santa Fe maintained a special fire brigade at Needles, but the fire spread so quickly that their efforts to check it were futile.

The upper story was used as a hotel and all the restaurant employees and many trainmen occupied rooms at the time the fire broke out. The fire started about 4 o'clock this morning. The sleeping occupants of the hotel were awakened by the night watchman, and it was with great difficulty most of them made their escape. Half a dozen of the waitresses were more or less severely burned about the face and arms in getting out of the blazing building. It was at first thought that every one in the building had escaped, but later investigation showed that Conductor Carter and waitress Priscilla Bastian were missing and a search of the ruins revealed their charred remains.

The loss is probably $25,000. The corner of San Bernardino county has gone to Needles to conduct an investigation.

The fire started in the bakery of the Harvey restaurant and spread quickly to the main building. The loss is estimated to be $25,000.

The following is a list of the injured:

Emilee Cole, seriously burned.
May Hart.
Mary Bowman.
Eleanor Hamilton.
All were waitresses, and all were badly burned.
Conductor Hawes, severely burned.
W. R. King, trainman.
A special train bringing the injured to Los Angeles Santa Fe hospital will arrive here at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

SANDERS DISCUSSED WOOTTON

Declares He Must Present Evidence of His Innocence or Go Mad—Rehearses Points Brought Out at His Trial and Points Out Weaknesses that Show He Could Not Have Murdered the Aged Reedley Rancher—May Write More, He Says.

Buried for twelve years behind the walls of a penitentiary, all but forgotten save by those who knew him well in the days when his head was lifted high in the community, Professor William A. Sanders has set about the task of clearing his name of the foul suspicion of murder. Old, bent, decrepit, penniless, the tale of his unfortunate life written in the deep lines of his face and the weary movements of his body, Sanders' mind still appears to work as keenly as it did in his youth, and he is today as vehement as he was twelve years ago, when a jury convicted of forging the name of William Wootton, he declaring his innocence. Of the murder of Wootton he was never convicted—was never even tried, for the reason that it was never established that Wootton was dead. But Sanders knows that many people believe him guilty, knows that while he is personally forgotten, the famous Wootton case is remembered by hundreds and that a strong chain of circumstances pointed to Sanders, the convicted forger, as being responsible for the mysterious disappearance of the old rancher of the foothills above Reedley.

Today Sanders breaks the silence of twelve long years. For the first time since the doors of the penitentiary opened to him last February and he stepped out into the free air, he discusses the Wootton mystery.

William Wootton was an aged Englishman who owned a big tract of land twelve miles northeast of Reedley. On the first day of February, 1894, he disappeared. It was not till the following April that his disappearance began to attract attention. When it did, the hand of suspicion began to point strongly toward Sanders, who was the last man seen with the old rancher.

Sanders' story told at the time was a remarkable one. He said that he, John Knausch, a man who was never accounted for, and who was generally supposed to be a myth, and another man named Graves, opened his hand. Wootton wanted $50,000. They offered him $10,000. The capital was for the greater part being supplied by Knausch, who was a boyhood friend of Sanders. Knausch, Sanders and Graves decided to go out to Wootton's place, and offer him the cash for the place, believing the sight of the money would move him.

Knausch and Graves set out from another point, driving in his backboard. He knew the route, but the other men did not, being guided by a rough chart. They finally lost their bearings, and when they located themselves, they found they would either have to make a four-mile drive around a hill to get to Wootton's house, or climb a hill 500 feet high, over a mile. They hitched their horses and climbed the hill, carrying the bags of gold with them. Midnight Sanders had arrived at the place in his backboard. The four men talked at some length, and finally agreed to drive over to Fowler, to make the final settlement of the deal. Knausch and Graves walked down over the hill to their rig and Sanders and Wootton drove away together. When they met the other two men down the road, Wootton got out of Sanders' rig and rode with them. The $40,000 was left with Sanders. At one place the road divided, the two branches coming together several miles farther down. Wootton and his companions took one of these branches, Sanders the other. A few miles from their destination Wootton took offense at Sanders' calling out that the money was safe and ordered him to turn around and go back, taking the money out of Sanders' backboard. Sanders did as he was told and this was the last time he ever saw Wootton. The deal, however, was consummated, for within a few days deeds to the property were filed, and, strangely enough, Graves and Knausch transferred their interest to Sanders and his son.

While Sanders declares he never saw Wootton again, he produced several letters which he received from the missing man. Wootton also wrote to business men with whom he had had dealings, giving them instructions to pay all outstanding accounts to Sanders. Sanders also presented for payment a note which he claimed Wootton had mailed him, and it was for forging this note that he was convicted and sent to the penitentiary.

May Have Been Dummy. Charles Rohloff, a farm hand employed by Wootton, testified that he saw his employer and Sanders drive away in the latter's backboard, but he did not see anything of Graves or Knausch, though he was in a position to see anyone climbing either up or down the hill. He said that Wootton, or what he took to be Wootton, sat in the buggy rigid without sign of life, not even taking the lines when Sanders got out to open a gate. The theory was advanced that Wootton's body either was disposed of, and had a dummy with him in the backboard, or that it was Wootton's lifeless body that Sanders took away with him.

Professor Sanders does not make any new statements or throw any light upon the case in his statement in this morning's Republican. He merely attacks the evidence brought out in the case, seeks to show where there were discrepancies of a pronounced nature, making it impossible for him to have committed the crime.

Sanders is now a charge upon the county. His years of study and his expert knowledge of botany count for naught; he is an ex-convict over whom hangs a dark cloud of suspicion of crime of which he was not convicted, the crime of murder. The crime of the crime of murder. The crime of the crime of murder.

A DAYLIGHT TRIP. Through San Joaquin Valley in Paris Can. Travelers on the Southern Pacific may now see the great San Joaquin valley by daylight while riding through it in comfortable parlor cars. ing to the 'Wootton mystery.' I could not rest in my grave without attempting to clear up the prevailing falsehoods that have been and are being disseminated about the matter. I was convicted of passing an alleged forged check for $1400 on Kutter & Goldstein and drawing $1150 on it. The other check was sent in a letter from Fernand. The nearest accident in the world enabled us to prove the circumstances of the mailing of the letter. It was the first letter stamped on the morning of February 5, 1894, and this accident that I speak of was that the postmaster got the five wrong side up so that the first impression of the date showed an inverted five. This enabled him to know how, when and where the letter reached his hand, all of which was sworn to on my trials.

"But the all-important question is, 'What became of Wootton?' The most important witness for the prosecution, sworn, 'On that day, February 1, 1894, I saw Sanders and Wootton walking down to the house from the hill behind it, between 3 and 4 o'clock. Fifteen or twenty minutes later I saw them driving down to the gate of the field, from where I was working. The mules were galloping, as was usual when starting for home.' 'That fifteen or twenty minutes' is of vast importance. What had I to do in that time? If I drove home, I had a twenty-one mile drive before me. If I drove to Fresno a forty mile drive. I had to grease my backboard, harness mules to the spring to drive eighty yards to the granary, and get six sacks of wheat for Rohloff to sow, and then drive one hundred yards more to where Rohloff saw us driving away—and all this in 'fifteen or twenty minutes.' And certain persons tried to make out that Wootton never packed his satchel and voluntarily rode away with me, thus making me pack his satchel and hypnotize or make away with Wootton and substitute a dummy—all in that 'fifteen or twenty minutes.' I forbear comment!

"Rohloff further swore: 'They drove down to the gate. Sanders held the mules with his left hand and threw the sacks over the fence with his right hand, while Wootton, on bolt up I took to be Wootton, sat bolt upright as though looking straight ahead—never touching the lines or showing any sign of life whatever. When asked if Wootton kept his seat all right while the backboard was jumping over the rocks after the galloping mules, he answered that he did. As to my throwing the sacks of wheat over the fence, I will only say that the fence is five feet ten inches high, that the sacks weighed ninety pounds each, and that my right hand was crippled with a broken thumb. Rohloff was 800 feet from us, running a four-horse plow, feeder and harrow, and was on rough ground with constant use for his eyes.

"Three hours later, Knausch and Graves, the two other parties to the deal, had joined us. They were seen by Wootton, Traber at the sand swale one mile from my place. Traber knew only one word that the others were Wootton, Knausch and Graves. Let me see. Recall to your memory the searching, the scrutinizing, the following up, every clew and avenue of search, the inquiries, the threats, and through it all my statement that Wootton, Knausch and Graves were with me at the sand swale was never refuted or disproved. As to the possibility of raber's lying, and that there were not three men with me, a detective started out on that line and found a thousand of the best men in the country to sustain Traber's reputation. He dropped it and we referred to his work only with laughing and disgust.

"The next we positively know of Wootton was from Al Stetson, son of millionaire James Stetson, who had known Wootton for over twenty-five years. He swore, 'I saw Wootton in San Francisco (this was positive), I believe, about the middle of February, 1894.' After he left the witness stand he was followed by Attorney Snow and a whispered conference was held, and he was recalled to the stand and admitted that it might have been January or December when he had seen him. But Rohloff had already sworn: 'Wootton never left his ranch in January or December.' This yields an iron chain of positive proof that Stetson did see him in San Francisco in February a week or two after Wootton and I rode away from the ranch together.

"Charles H. Chambers, who had known Wootton for over a quarter of a century, swore at each of my four trials that he saw Wootton in San Francisco in February, 1894, and no amount of badgering or browbeating could make him deviate from his statement. Detectives were sent to hunt up Chambers' past life, to try to find something to weaken his testimony, but in vain.

"I have written this at the expense of a great deal of physical suffering; written it because I think the time has come, not for a newspaper vindication, but for every man who loves truth to have facts placed before him.

(Signed) "W. A. SANDERS." P. S. I had to write the above or go crazy. Whether I write any more will depend on how far I am assailed by falsehood, whether or not my family approves, whether or not the public shows a greater desire for truth than to "cinch old Sanders," and whether or not my attorney permits. But it all depends on whether my right hand and arm partially paralyzed since the San Francisco trial, shall be in a condition to enable me to write.

Is Bodily Injury Painful? SELMA, Cal., Sept. 6, 1906.—Editor Republican: In last Sunday's issue of your paper in speaking of the divorce case of A. J. Gates vs. Edith M. Gates, it was stated in the report of the case that Mrs. Gates had induced a dangerous wound upon Mr. Gates with a butcher knife. In justice to Mrs. Gates I wish to say that this is an error, and that there was nothing in the case about the infliction of any wound. I remain respectfully,

ERNEST KLETTE. The item referred to by Mr. Klette did not state that a "dangerous wound" was inflicted. It stated that Gates was painfully wounded, which is borne out by the following statement taken from the findings of the court: "The said defendant inflicted upon the plaintiff grievous bodily injury."

CRIMES AND ACCIDENTS

Insane Woman Beheads Children. COLUMBUS GROVE, Ohio, Sept. 6.—Mrs. Henry Knippen, wife of a farmer living near Cloverdale, today decapitated her two children, a boy aged 3 and a girl aged one and a half years, with a carving knife. The woman recently was discharged from the Toledo state hospital for the insane.

Negro Murderers Hanged. PITTSBURG, Sept. 6.—Cornelius Coombe and John Williams, negroes, were executed in the jail yard here today.

Stole From Document Room. WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—Following the investigation of the disappearance of many rare and valuable law books from the document room of the United States senate, H. E. Cuneo, a negro, was arrested yesterday at the capitol on the charge of larceny. In a committee room frequented by Cuneo, a detective says he found twenty-three volumes of a digest of international law, which are the only original copies in the country and which were barred from removal from the document room, tightly wrapped and addressed to Cuneo.

Falling Floor Causes Fatalities. ELYRIA, O., Sept. 6.—Three men were killed and a dozen seriously injured by the falling of the second floor of the new factory building of the Garford company under construction here today. The dead and injured so far as is known are Hungarians. Many of the injured are in a critical condition.

The cause of the accident is unknown.

Found With Skull Crushed. JAMESTOWN, N. Y., Sept. 6.—The body of D. A. Wille was found last night scotched under a workshed at his home at Ripley. The skull was crushed and he had apparently been dead several days. There was a trail of blood leading from the sitting room to the kitchen at thence to the workshed. Wille was last seen on Sunday at Erie, where his wife had been for several days.

He Blew His Brains Out. SAN DIEGO, Sept. 6.—Henry Furman, an aged German citizen, committed suicide this morning at 10 o'clock by blowing his brains out. He was 70 years of age and had been in ill health for a long time. He loaded a shotgun and after climbing on a chair leaned over so that the side of his head was at the muzzle of the gun, which he discharged with a stick. The charge took the whole back of his head off and sent the brains about the room.

Horrible Method of Suicide. LOUISVILLE, Ky., Sept. 6.—Harry B. Pyne, head of the firm of H. B. Pyne & Co., machine manufacturers, committed suicide in a ghastly manner today. He first made an effort to end his life by shooting. This failing, he drew a razor across his throat and then tore the wound apart with his fingers. His wife and others witnessed the tragedy. His health is believed to have caused the deed.

Marblehead Out of Commission. WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—Orders have been issued at the navy department to place the cruiser Marblehead out of commission at Mare Island navy yard, California, and to transfer her officers and crew to the gunboat Yorktown.

TALK OR TALCUM?

If you are buying talk then buy anything the dealer may choose to say is "just as good."

If you are buying talcum, then Mennen's Borated Talcum is the only preparation which you can buy with satisfaction.

"Talk is cheap." Talcum, however, is not so cheap, because it costs the dealer more and makes his profit less. That's why he'd sooner sell you talk than "talcum" of the Mennen Brand.

Don't be talked out of buying Mennen's Borated Talcum, the only powder which can be used with safety and satisfaction.

Have you tried Mennen's VIOLET BORATED TALCUM TOILET POWDER? It's fragrant with the odor of fresh plucked Parma Violets.

Yesterday Was Our Busiest Day Since This Great Removal Sale Started. The Best and Strongest Argument for The Great Values We are Offering

The fact that the attendance continues to increase daily as this sale progresses, can be an indication of but one thing, and that is that those who attend the first days of this sale are spreading the good news about the great bargains we are offering among their friends and neighbors. We are offering absolutely the greatest values that were ever offered at any sale anywhere. We have made cuts in all of our summer goods that brings them down to much less than what they cost us, but we are willing to stand a loss in order to close out all summer goods. The prices on many of our new fall garments have also been reduced from a quarter to a third what they should be. We are cramped for room and are sacrificing profits in order to make space for the new goods that are piling in daily. We advise morning attendance if possible. We are not so crowded then.

They are full satin lined, not one in the lot worth under $7.50 and up to $10.75; choice $3.95; alterations extra; not all sizes.

$6.95 for $11 New Fall Tourist Coats

One of the smartest new fall models of a beautiful plaid color combinations being cream, grey and red. They have tailored collars, three 2 1/2 inch straps in the back, two straps in front, the new automobile buttons, fancy cuffs, outside pockets, positively the best $11 value you will see this season; on sale while they last at $6.95.

79c for Waists, up to $1.75
98c for Waists, up to $2.50

Our whole waist stock has been reduced in price about the same proportion, but of course we can not mention every reduced line. The waists we offer at 79c and 98c are the best values that were ever offered anywhere up to $1.75 and $2.50. They are made of splendid quality white lawns and batiste and are beautifully trimmed in good embroidery and lace insertion; in fact many have allover embroidery fronts, new this season.

CHINK HELD TO ANSWER

Hong Wah to Face Bribery Charge.

Attempt to Buy Fantan Privileges of the Mayor for $200.

Hong Wah is the aged Chinaman who was charged with offering a bribe to Mayor Lyon for police protection and permission to run fautan games. He was held to answer before the Superior Court by Judge Briggs yesterday morning. The defendant will be charged with entering the mayor's office and offering him a bribe of $200. He was arraigned nearly two months ago and released on $2000 bail.

For the defense it was brought forth as a demurrer to the charge that the complaint was legally defective in that the complaining witness was erroneously referred to as state executive officer. Attorney Lewis H. Smith cited numerous authorities in support of his contention.

The prosecution, supported by Deputy District Attorney Barbour, showed that the charges had been brought under the interpretation of Section 67 of the penal code, which outlines the penalties and liabilities of persons attempting to bribe any executive officer of the law with intent to gain influence at variance with the passage of the law. Mr. Barbour said that the only question at issue was the doubt raised relative to Mayor Lyon being an executive officer of the state. He cited authorities as a rebuttal to the contention of the defense and quoted the Charter of Fresno, Section 30, sub. 2, which empowers the mayor with the authority to preserve law and order through the police department. It was also shown that the municipality is a department of the state and the officers who administer its laws have direct power derived from the state.

Judge Briggs said he was sorry to press charges against a man more than 70 years old, but the evidence supporting the charges left no alternative. There are several witnesses of standing who positively state that a bribe was offered to the mayor in their presence.

All About a Chicken. James Jose was arraigned before Judge Briggs on a charge of assaulting the person of Winfield Waterman with a deadly weapon. The two men got into an argument as neighbors over the possession of a chicken which got over the fence of one of their houses. Jose, it was alleged, drew a revolver and pointed it at Waterman, and the latter swore to a complaint. A number of witnesses were called and all testified that there had been a gun play during the argument. One of the witnesses called was a little girl of 9 years who lived one block away from the two men. She told her story in a straightforward way, saying that she was playing outside the garden of her home at 302 Anna street and heard the men wrangling. "James," she said naively, "had a revolver in his hand—so," and she showed with her tiny hands the position of the gun in the hands of Jose.

Deputy District Attorney Barbour for the prosecution, in summing, said the case seemed to be more one calling for a charge of displaying a deadly weapon than of assault with a deadly weapon. He did not think that even the former charge would stand before a jury, as the matter was nothing more than a wordy war between neighbors with nothing to bear out a conviction. The defendant was released. The complainant was represented by Attorney McKnight.

Chink Wanted His 75 Cents. W. Delinger is a husky gentleman who ran up a bill with a Chinese restaurant keeper on the West Side some weeks ago and was long winded in paying it. The Chink complained to the police and Officer Aubrey cautioned the man to pay the money at once. The bill ran on for some time until the Celestial lost his patience and swore out a complaint of defrauding an innkeeper. The defendant explained that he was willing to pay, but would not plead guilty. Finally, when the judge committed him to jail in default of $25 bail, he offered to pay if he were given the chance.

Gets Back Eye Before Guests. Lawrence Tomassini and J. Haith both worked in the City Bakery, and were in a lively little mix-up yesterday morning. Because Tomassini called the other a bad name, he was promptly snitten to the ground in the presence of a hungry customer. The injured man swore to a complaint and appeared in court in the afternoon with a darkened optic. Haith pleaded guilty, but averred that he had received great provocation. He was fined $15, which he paid.

THE TICKETS.

With the completion of the work of the state convention, the nominations of the Republican party of California, from governor to constables, are now complete. It remains only for the people to discuss and decide. For the most part, it is already evident that the decision will be favorable to the Republican candidates. With all the growing and laudable tendency to independent voting, there is still very properly a long handicap in favor of the candidates of the dominant party. It is not for nothing that California is a Republican state, the sixth district a Republican district, and Fresno county a Republican county. There are reasons for this party preference, and these reasons, applying directly and logically to some of the offices to be voted on this fall, have a natural human tendency to be applied to many of the other offices also. Other things being equal, the Republican candidate, in a Republican state or community, naturally gets elected. The rebuke of independent voting is reserved for those cases (fortunately few this year) in which other things are not equal.

The news of the nomination of Congressman Gillett for governor will be received with favor in Fresno county, whose delegates voted for him and whose people are very friendly to him. Mr. Gillett has been our friend in the legislature, in Congress, and everywhere. He co-operated with our representatives in the legislature, and with Congressman Needham at Washington, in more than one fight in which Fresno county was intensely interested. Mr. Gillett is an able, straight-forward and vigorous man, whose personal and political methods and affiliations have always been known as exceptionally high. Like all his rivals for the nomination, he was accused in this campaign of relaxing his hitherto uncompromising anti-boos attitude, but it is pleasing to note that the bosses had to come to him, not he to the bosses, and that Ruel and his San Francisco puppets, only came to Gillett's support after they knew that he would be nominated without them. This Ruel bossism is a San Francisco situation, which can only be cured by curing it in San Francisco. Pending that, the best rest of the state can do is to maintain its independence of San Francisco. The nomination of a candidate whom San Francisco did not want, and did not need San Francisco's vote, is a long step in that direction. The Republican's friendliness to Governor Pardee is well known, but that friendliness did not involve hostility to Gillett, to whom personally we felt it anything even closer than to Pardee. There have been few political contests so friendly, in which the advocates of either candidate could so cordially accept the other. We predict for Gillett a record-breaking majority in the state, and hereby enter Fresno county in the contest for the banner Republican majority.

At this writing, the remainder of the ticket is not complete, though we hope to have it complete before going to press. Fresno county is recognized by the nomination of W. R. Williams by acclamation for state treasurer. This nomination will be received with enthusiasm in Fresno county, where Mr. Williams is best known and appreciated. It is a strong nomination, a just recognition of this section of the state, and an honor to a man who has worthily earned it and will worthily deserve it in office.

The remainder of the ticket, so far as yet received, is about as expected. It is generally good, with only one or two distinctly weak spots, and these inevitable.

The nominations for congress and legislative offices have already been discounted by the enthusiastic acceptance of the whole people of the Fresno districts. Congressman Needham has been renominated for a fifth term. This is the first district in California, so far as we remember, that has been wise enough to keep a good congressman in office long enough for him to attain rank and power in Washington. As the acknowledged leader of the state delegation, a member of the ways and means committee, and the trusted friend of the powers that be, Mr. Needham is far too valuable a man to lose. The time when his renomination or reelection were debatable questions is long since past. When the Democrats, last election, nominated Judge Conley, one of their strongest men, it was a last desperate attempt to discover whether or not Needham is invincible. They discovered, and there will be no serious effort to contest his election this year.

In Short, Chandler and Drew, Fresno has maintained its record in presenting probably the most uniformly strong legislative ticket in the state. If more men of Frank Short's caliber were nominated to the state senate, that body would command the respect which belongs to the first law making body of the state. Fresno county offers Frank H. Short to the state as a leader in its legislative councils, and in any broader fields to which he may be called; and it offers him a conceded and almost unanimous election to the senate, as a larger public forum in which to manifest those talents already so evident in the fields of private endeavor.

Both Chandler and Drew are already leaders of the assembly—among the few whose position is established. W. F. Chandler is known as about the most independent, uncompromisingly upright and stubbornly honest man in the public service of California. Nothing with even the suspicion of a taint can get by his able scrutiny. In addition to all the positive good such a man can do, he can prevent more harm than a whole squadron of San Francisco grafters can devise. The legislature of California needs him, and Fresno county will see that it gets him. A. M. Drew is already the floor leader of the assembly, perhaps its most expert presiding officer, and acknowledged among its few ablest men. He has stood always consistently and often brilliantly for the cause of uprightness and decency in legislation, and is responsible for much of the constructive legislation enacted during the past four years. His reelection against any opponent, and especially against his present opponent, is quite a matter of course.

Locally, the Fresno county ticket is in general a strong and a winning one. The claims of the various candidates will be presented from time to time in the local columns of the Republican. As in the case of the state ticket, no one pretends that all the candidates are of equal strength, or that the destiny of the republic is quite so bound up in the election of each local candidate as that candidate is apt to think. The campaign, for these offices, is of course largely a personal one, conducted by the candidates themselves and their immediate friends. Newspaper argument finds its more appropriate function in the discussion of general issues. The campaign for these local offices differs, too, from other campaigns, in the fact that each candidate, in his canvass, undertakes personally to meet each voter, and that the habit of independent voting has gone so far that the "split ticket" probably outnumber the straight tickets of both parties combined. Consequently the candidates even of the dominant party must depend for their election largely on their personal ability, after a personal canvass, to secure the support of the independent voters. It may not be customary to say this so publicly, during campaign times, but everybody knows it is true, says so privately, and acts on it. All the candidates conduct their canvass on this basis, and there can be no harm in frankly saying so. But it can also be said, that the general standard of the Republican nominations is high and the prospects are decidedly that most, if not all of them, will receive the verdict of popular approval.

A perusal of some of the nominating speeches at Santa Cruz yesterday again suggests the Republican's query, "Why is an orator?"

Ghastly Method of Suicide.
LOUISVILLE, Ky., Sept. 8.—Harry B. Pyne, head of the firm of H. B. Pyne & Co., machine manufacturers, committed suicide in a ghastly manner today. He first made an effort to end his life by shooting. This failing, he drew a razor across his throat, and then tore the wound apart with his fingers. His wife and others witnessed the tragedy. His health is believed to have caused the deed.

CHILDREN'S WEEK

This Store Is Going to Belong to The Youngsters During One Gloriously, Joyful Week

There isn't one word of mere "advertising talk" on this page—not one. Too many remarkable things to talk about—things that will please and interest every child in this town—and every mother, too.

This store of ours is going to change its character. For one full week it's going to be the finest kind of a Children's Store—it's going to be filled with interesting, enjoyable things—to keep the youngster's happy—to keep them quiet and contented while their mothers have a chance to see what changes have been made at every case and counter where children's goods are sold.

For The Magic Worker Has Been Hard At Work

Reaching here, there and everywhere for the price tags—marking them lightly—unpacking great cases of hosiery, and waists, and little dresses, and underwear, and all the other things that school children need.

Here is a combination of great variety and unusually pleasant prices that will interest parents—that will fill the store—that will mass the buyers in front of the counters and make the sales force work as they never worked before in all their lives.

Weeks and weeks ago we planned this surprise—for such things can't be brought about by sitting still and wishing. We said, "we'll turn our store into the finest kind of a place for children to come—we'll add decorations and other things that will amuse 'em—and then we will show their mothers that in all the United States, there is no more satisfactory store in which to buy the clothing and infants' wear and the other supplies that children always stand in need of."

And We Have Done It!

—and this is our hearty invitation to children to come with their fathers and mothers and see all the surprising and pleasant things that have been gathered to amuse them.

—and it is our announcement to parents, that never in all their lives have they seen or will they see such bargains in infants' and children's supplies, as will be found here during the next week.

(and you mustn't forget that the school bells will ring pretty soon.) Just so that you may realize what CHILDREN'S WEEK will do to help you save money—we print some words that tell of the chances to save money. But the store is fairly bulging with good things of the kind—we can't begin to tell of them.

Come and see how we operate a store for the children.

DEAD A WEEK IN HIS CABIN

Jens Kromann's Corpse Is Found B a Child.

Had Declined to Live With Daughters and Be a Burden in Old Age.

Lying dead for nearly a week in his little cabin within a short distance from the homes of his children, near Mark avenue, the decomposed corpse of Jens Kromann, a native of Germany, aged 72 years, was found yesterday evening at about dusk. The discovery was made by a little grandchild of the deceased, who was playing in the vicinity of the hut. The child thought that she would go in and see her grandpa before going home, and pushing the door open, saw what she thought was the old man's form lying on the bed asleep. She tried to awaken him, but something frightened her and she ran off to her parents, who had just returned from picking grapes, and told them that her grandfather was asleep and could not be roused.

It was then that the older people remembered that they had not seen the old man for several days, and they guessed the truth. One glance in the cabin confirmed their fears and they sent a hurried message to the coroner. James J. Jackson, an employee of Stephens & Benn, was dispatched to the spot with a dead wagon, and brought the remains to town, where they were lodged in the morgue of the undertakers. Dr. Cowan, the coroner, directed Dr. Sample to hold a postmortem examination of the body and determine, if possible, the cause of death, but owing to the advanced stage of decomposition, this was found difficult. It was finally decided that the old man had died of heart failure contributed by senile decay.

The deceased eked out a living sufficient for his simple wants by chicken raising. Formerly he was a rancher but with advancing years he followed a lighter calling. His relatives offered him a comfortable home with them from time to time, but he declined, saying that he would never be a burden to any one. He leaves four children, the three daughters being Mrs. Andrew Hansen and Mrs. Jane Larsen of West Park, Mrs. Jona Rasmussen of Fresno colony and his son, Otto Kromann of this city.

The remains were prepared for interment and the funeral will be held this morning after the holding of an inquest.

Children and Glasses

Much nervous energy is wasted through eye defects and many bright children are accused of inattention to their studies and even of being dullards all because of some eye defect that could be corrected by proper fitting glasses.

We are particularly well equipped for fitting children's eyes besides having had ten years of experience in this particular work.

Saturday is children's day here, there'll be no charge for the examination and a very reasonable one for the glasses if needed.

WANTS ESTATE OF MALLORY

Mrs. Hand Presents Claim for Whole or Part.

Contest Over Klondiker's Money Occupies Whole Day in Court.

The suit of Mary Louise Hand for the whole or part of the estate of her uncle, Thomas Mallory, valued at $20,000, occupied most of the attention of Judge Church's department of the Superior court yesterday. Mrs. Hand bases her claim to the estate of her uncle upon two grounds, first by reason of an alleged agreement between her and her uncle, and second by virtue of the execution of a trust under which her uncle held some Fresno county property for her.

The public administrator held that the property should go to the heirs at law, comprising Elias S. Mallory, George May, Benjamin Mallory, Emma May, Edna May, W. M. Johnson and the estate of Lucy Shaw, and this distribution of the property is contested in the suit brought by Mrs. Hand. Graham & Wallace, and J. B. Spillman of San Francisco represent the plaintiff in the suit, while George Congrave and Manson McCormack appear for the public administrator, F. E. Cook for William Johnson and Congrave for the remaining heirs.

The opening statement and subsequent testimony offered for the plaintiff attempts to show that Mrs. Hand accompanied her uncle to California from the East and took care of him for a period of four years under an agreement by virtue of which she was to receive his entire estate when he died. She claims that he decided some time ago to leave his property to her at one time, fearing that he might die and leave no property and that he afterwards sold the property with her consent, keeping the money as a trust. The ranch was paid for, it is stated, partly in cash and partly in notes and mortgages, all of which are now in the possession of the public administrator. The suit asks for the whole estate by reason of the agreement heretofore mentioned, or at least a part of the estate by reason of the trust.

Depositions from Mrs. Hand taken at her home in Encampment, Wyoming, were offered in evidence in which the contestant states her side of the case. Attorney Cook was put on the stand to testify that Mallory had had him make out a deed to the ranch property to Mrs. Hand and the plaintiff testified her case.

For the respondent, it was stated that at the time of the alleged agreement, Mrs. Hand was living with W. M. Johnson at Cleveland, Ohio, and that she came to California to visit her uncle with another niece and that she gave no indication that any agreement existed between herself and her uncle when she left for California. The respondent contends that Mallory and his niece had never been closely affiliated and that the man was not especially fond of the girl and that the contest was an afterthought on the part of Mrs. Hand and her husband.

J. H. Kelley, a witness for the respondent, testified that Mallory and Mrs. Hand had lived with himself and sister in San Francisco and that there was no affection between the old man and the girl. He stated that Mallory had often been annoyed by the constant requests of the girl for money and that they had quarreled often. Mrs. H. H. Hamilton testified to the same purport.

The case was continued until this morning at 9:30 o'clock.

COUNTY TAX RATE TO BE RAISED

Because the late spring floods did so much havoc to the roads in the outlying districts of the county, particularly on the west side and in the mountains, the county tax rate this year will probably be much higher than last year's rate.

The supervisors will fix the rate on the 15th of the month.

School Budget Less.
The school budget for this year will be about $10,000 less than it was last year. This is caused chiefly by the fact that the budget of last year called for the erection of a parental school. The running expenses this year will be practically the same as last year.

TO RECOVER FOR GRAPES

Malaga Packing Company Sues Local Firm.

Yesterday Was Busy Day in Both Departments of Superior Court.

A suit was filed by the Malaga Packing company yesterday afternoon to recover $720.63, alleged to be due from the Pioneer Fruit company. The complaint states that the plaintiff entered into a contract with the Pioneer Fruit company to deliver grapes from the vineyard of S. R. La Rue and grapes purchased elsewhere to the total value of $1837.43, and that $1116.80 has been paid, leaving a balance due of the amount asked for.

Public Administrator Chittenden yesterday afternoon filed his answer in the suit brought against him as the administrator of the estate of John S. Reid by Celia Arenas and W. O. Temple. He denies in both instances that the estate is indebted to the plaintiffs to the extent that they claim or to any extent at all and denies that their claims are just.

A motion to modify the injunction sought by M. R. Madary against H. H. Walsh to prevent the defendant from taking timber from certain lands upon which the plaintiff has a mortgage, was argued and submitted before Judge Austin yesterday afternoon.

The appointment and oath of Wallace L. Barr as a deputy county clerk was filed yesterday afternoon.

Mary I. Shattuck, administratrix of the estate of C. E. Shattuck, deceased, was given an order by Judge Church yesterday afternoon permitting her to sell fifteen tons of raisins belonging to the estate.

Judge Church also issued an order permitting Alice Baker, administratrix for the estate of Westwood J. Baker, deceased, to sell 100 tons of wine grapes, fifty tons of raisins and one ton of figs.

Charles Myers, defendant in a suit for divorce brought against him by his wife, Alice Myers, filed an answer yesterday to the complaint of his spouse. The answer states that the woman wilfully deserted the home of the defendant and that all she had to do at any time was to return. He alleges that his wife was getting him from home from May, 1904, until May, 1905, and that again in October, 1905, she deserted their home. He denies that at any time he has failed to provide for his wife or their child.

W. T. Mattinson, special administrator of the estate of Hinkley Benjamin Chiche, deceased, filed his final account yesterday and Judge Church issued an order allowing the account and discharging the administrator.

The case of H. M. Rustigan vs. the La Pasa Rice Vineyard company has been set for trial on the 13th of this month.

Judge Austin yesterday afternoon issued an order confirming the sale of real estate belonging to the estate of Laura C. Colburn, deceased.

Judge Austin yesterday afternoon entered a decree annulling the judgment for divorce in the suit brought by Selma C. Hills against George Hipple, the husband and wife having parted up their differences.

Articles of incorporation were filed yesterday afternoon of the Boyle Lumber company with Fresno as its principal place of business. The capital stock of the corporation is $100,000 all of which has been subscribed as follows: F. A. Boyle, $25,000; William Urledge, $24,500; and R. N. Boyle, $50,000. There are 100 shares valued at $500 each. The corporation will operate the Dillwood mill in Tulare county.

Demurrers to two suits brought by the Scorpion Brothers' Packing corporation against John M. Scorpion et al. were overruled by Judge Austin yesterday afternoon and a demurrer to a third complaint was taken under advisement.

W. W. Weaver, who imagines that people are peering into his house, was examined as to his sanity yesterday afternoon before Judge Austin. There was nothing to indicate that the man was insane. He admitted that he was victim of the chloral habit and was sent back of the insane ward until the effects of the drug wear off, when his case will be further considered.

HIPPLE WAS MONEY MAD

Strange Practices of Dead Banker Revealed.

Examiners to Determine Responsibility of Wreck of Trust Company.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 6.—To determine the responsibility of the directors of the wrecked Real Estate Trust company, Banking Commissioner Birkey came here today and appointed as special bank examiners Charles M. Vollum, and Meyer Goldsmith, expert accountants, who with the consent of Receiver Earle, will begin tomorrow a thorough examination of the defunct concern.

Receiver Earle tonight after a conference with Directors of the company, announced that he hopes to reopen the bank soon and that all depositors will be protected. Earle says the directors have responded to his solicitations to help reorganize the company, but did not state what amounts they have guaranteed.

The preliminary hearing of Adolph Segal, the promoter; Wm. F. North, treasurer and Marshall S. Collingwood, assistant treasurer, took place today. They were held in heavy bail for trial. The evidence presented by District Attorney Bell at the hearing of Segal, North and Collingwood disclosed the methods by which Segal and Hipple worked the trust company. The most damaging testimony was that Segal and Hipple had repeatedly overdrawn their accounts with the knowledge of the treasurer and assistant treasurer. These overdrafts were carried as cash accounts. On the day Hipple died there was an overdraft of $64,000 against the president which was converted by Collingwood into a loan, showing Hipple's account to be apparently straight.

These overdrafts of Hipple and Segal at times amounted to more than $800,000. There was on deposit in the bank approximately $7,000,000, and the loans made to Segal amounted to $5,300,200. Many of the securities which have since been found insufficient, were bonds and stocks in the Segal enterprises and were signed personally by Hipple.

Although Receiver Earle appears hopeful of opening the bank at an early date, many of the creditors express some doubt as to his ability to do so because of the uncertainty of the Segal sugar refinery here as an asset.

Many of the depositors who placed money in the bank on Monday and Tuesday after the directors knew that it was insolvent, were allowed to withdraw their deposits today. There were 414 deposits, and of this number 198 were returned.

Found on the Skin Phosphate

Direct From the Brain

We know that active brain work throws out the phosphate of potash, for this product is found on the skin after excessive brain work.

Brain workers, in order to keep well, must have proper food containing phosphate of potash to quickly and surely rebuild the used up tissue.

That one can obtain such food has been proven in thousands of cases among users of Postum Food Coffee and Grape Nuts.

Both contain phosphate of potash in minute particles, just as it is furnished by nature in the brain matter.

This product blends with albumen and makes the gray matter that builds the brain and fills the nerve centers. In no way can this gray matter be made except by the action of phosphate of potash upon albumen, and this mineral should be introduced to the body just as it comes from nature's laboratory, and not from the drug store. The human system is more or less fastidious about taking up the needed elements, and as might be suspected, it will favor the products of Mother Nature rather than the products of the drug shop, however valuable they may be for certain uses.

Athletes, lawyers, journalists, doctors, ministers, business men and others, who cur their living by the use of the brain, are using both Postum Food Coffee and Grape Nuts Food. Both products are manufactured for a reason. They are originated by an expert, and the regenerative value of both the Postum Coffee and the Food has been demonstrated beyond question. Made in the pure food factories of Postum Co., at Battle Creek, Mich.

wrecking of the company, was held before Magistrate Kochersperger today. The court room was crowded with men well known in the financial world.

District Attorney Bell, in outlining his case, said he would prove that the accused men with Hipple were engaged in a gigantic conspiracy to defraud the company and that as a result of their act more than $5,000,000 had been abstracted from the institution and embezzled for the use of one man, Adolph Segal. The active persons in the conspiracy, he said, were Hipple and Segal. The passive agents were North and Collingwood, he continued, who wickedly and wrongfully stood by and saw the others loot the institution and gave no warning.

Mr. Bell said the institution had 6,200 depositors and the deposits amounted to $7,000,000.

For the money borrowed by Segal there is nothing to show but wild cats. At the conclusion of the hearing the three prisoners were held for trial, their bail being renewed.

MAMMOTH CIRCUS WILL VISIT FRESNO THURSDAY

Forepaugh-Sells Shows Represent Acme of Modern Perfection.

The Forepaugh-Sells circus will give two exhibitions here Thursday next, afternoon at 2 o'clock and evening at 8. The event is of more than passing interest to this community. It is the day the small boy has been waiting for, the circus posters have had him hypnotized over since they were pasted on the bill boards. Now the day draws near, and, of course, papa and mamma must go just to take care of the children and incidentally recall moments of their own childhood.

It wasn't so very long ago that a circus with one ring was thought by old heads—then young heads, by the way—to be a pretty big affair. The one-ring show was changed to two rings with a larger circumference of canvas. Later the series of circus circles was increased to three and then a big platform was added.

But with the speed of the American nation this was not enough, and the hippodrome races, which gave a brutal spice to old Roman days, was added. The evolution of the circus in this way has reached its highest development and greatest success under the directing management of the Forepaugh-Sells shows.

They have now a show of colossal size as against what history records or the average man is familiar with. When they strike their tents in a given place, instantly a village arises with a thousand or more souls, each of whom has a definite duty, and leads to the systematic effect of the glorious whole. And their sheltering roof of canvas by the exact rules of measurement represents thousands of yards and affords not only a temporary home for these many people, but for five hundred or more horses each of which has a distinct office in the fulfillment of a showman's scheme that has lifted the name of the Forepaugh-Sells shows to a high place of honor.

The Wadsworths of the Genesee Valley

A Famous Old American Family Distinguished In War, Politics and Agriculture For Several Generations

CONGRESSMAN JAMES WADSWORTH, who has recently been involved in a spirited controversy over the meat inspection bill with President Roosevelt, is the head of a family which is about the nearest approach to the British landed gentry that can be found in republican America. There are several families in the Genesee valley that have made that beautiful section of the Empire State their habitation for more than a century, and among them all the Wadsworths are the oldest and most distinguished. These old settlers form a social colony to be compared in exclusiveness and culture with nothing else in the state, even though it were the rarefied atmosphere of Washington square.

James Wadsworth.

All of the Wadsworths have figured prominently in agriculture, politics and war. The first native born American of the name, James Wadsworth, of Durham, Conn., became a member of the committee of safety at the breaking out of the Revolutionary war. When the Declaration of independence was made public he was colonel and brigadier general of Connecticut militia and in the following year he was appointed second major general and was ordered to New Haven to defend the towns along the coast.

This James Wadsworth must have been a man of parts. After peace was signed he became justice of the New Haven county court of common pleas and was a delegate from Connecticut to the congress. When he died, in 1817, he had been a member of the executive council for five years. He was a scholar, but he had a nephew, another James, who had been graduated from Yale in 1787 and in 1790 had been elected with the western fever and had migrated to the Genesee river country. He purchased a large tract of land and in what is now the township of Genesee and soon became one of the richest landed proprietors in the state.

This second James Wadsworth was a philanthropist. It was one of his most cherished theories that education was a panacea for social ills of every description. At his personal expense he published and circulated numerous treatises on education, employed lecturers on the subject and offered premiums to the towns that should establish libraries. He was also the first man to propose the establishment of normal schools. In 1838 he procured the enactment of a school library law. In his sales of land he always stipulated that a tract of 125 acres in every township should be set aside for a church and another of the same size for a school.

His brother William was also an early settler in western New York. He secured a great tract of land adjoining that of his brother in the Genesee valley and proceeded to lay the foundation for a great manorial estate. When the War of 1812 broke out he became brigadier general of New York militia and took part in several engagements, once being compelled to give up his sword to the British commander, Sir Roger Sheaffe.

His son, James Samuel, was a Wadsworth worthy of the name. His father thought he would make a good lawyer and sent him to Harvard and Yale for his preliminary studies. He read law in Albany, afterward completing his course with Daniel Webster, who was in the habit of declaring publicly that young Wadsworth was "a true blue."

But he never practiced his profession. His great estate in the Genesee valley required his undivided attention, and he devoted himself to agriculture with an energy that was productive of telling results. It was during this period of his life that he obtained wide recognition as the most eminent practical farmer in America.

Although a Federalist by education and a Democrat by conviction, Mr. Wadsworth supported the antislavery movement and acted with the Free Soil party in 1848. He was presidential elector on the Republican ticket both in 1856 and in 1860. When the civil war began he was among the first to offer his services to the government.

When communication with Washington was cut off he chartered two ships, loaded them with provisions and went with them to Annapolis, where he supervised the delivery of the supplies.

the Genesee valley" has remained unquestioned until quite recently. About eighteen months ago there arrived in Albany, to take his seat as assemblyman from Livingston county, a young man known to his friends as Jimmy Wadsworth. Those friends were residents of the Genesee valley, where the Wadsworths may be said to "obtain."

The old political war horses at the capital smiled blithely and opined that it was "all the old man's doings." He had got ready to launch his youngster, and this was his way of doing it. All he had to do was to say the word, for wasn't he the "boss of the Genesee valley?"

With such an introduction James Junior entered Albany. He was but twenty-seven years of age, and besides his unusually attractive physical appearance he had nothing to make him conspicuous. Of course he attracted a certain amount of notice when his relationship became current. Twelve months later he was the most talked of man, young or old, in the state. At the mature age of twenty-eight he emerged into the limelight as the most conspicuous candidate for the speakership, acceptable both to the governor and to the president, and he went in, the youngest speaker ever elected in the state.

Young Wadsworth was graduated from Yale in 1898. Still continuing in the footsteps of his ancestors, he went into the Spanish war, which was just then on hand. His campaign in Porto Rico was not sufficiently realistic to satisfy him, and he re-enlisted for service in the Philippines. Here he earned a slight promotion from the ranks, being made civilian orderly, a sort of chief clerk to the general commanding one of the departments of the islands. It is recorded that he worked faithfully and did his work well. As an enlisted man he had to wear a uniform and could not fraternize with commissioned officers, although superior to most of them in wealth and social standing.

After almost two years of this sort of experience he returned to the Genesee valley and settled down to learn the practical part of farming. When he married Alice Hay, the second daughter of the late secretary of state, his father gave him a farm of 1,100 acres and built on it a handsome house in colonial style. Although there is but faint suggestion of the youthful prodigy inspired by young Mr. Wadsworth, there is a good deal that is fascinating about his personality. It was President Roosevelt and Governor Higgins, neither of whom is likely to be mistaken in his estimate of a new man. ELBERT O. WOODSON.

FLOGS UNCLE; GETS LIMIT

Graves Gets Fined $360 or Six Months for Battery.

McPherson's Nephew Beats Him Badly When Sued for Board Bill.

Because his old uncle, J. M. McPherson, involved the aid of the law in getting paid for an old standing board bill last week, J. P. Graves beat him badly that he was unable to get out of the house for some time. When the uncle was able to walk, he went to the justice of the peace and swore out a battery charge, and the young man was arrested. The affair happened in Madena. Yesterday, before Justice Barcroft, the fellow was banded out the full limit of the law in view of the flagrant conditions of the assault, and the savage attack made by him upon his uncle. He was given the choice of paying a fine of $320 or serving six months in the county jail.

The precise nature of the trouble between the two men is not definitely known, nor was it stated what amount was owed by Graves to his uncle, but current report has it that the nephew made his home with his uncle and lived upon him without payment for some time. After Graves had run up an enormous bill for food and other accommodations, the old gentleman protested and asked to see the color of his money. The nephew then wanted to wipe out the old bill and start a new one, and so run on for an indefinite period without payment.

Mr. McPherson objected to the loss of his money and complained to the justice of the peace, and an agreement was settled upon. As three months passed by without any effort being made to square off the outstanding debt, McPherson again sought the aid of the law and wages due to Graves were attached. This enraged him, and he went straight to the old man's home and gave him a terrible thrashing. As soon as the young man was able to hobble out he got the young man arrested. The accused pleaded guilty, and after mature deliberation Judge Barcroft came to the conclusion that the case merited the utmost severity of the law.

MIND RECEDES AT THE THRESHOLD OF MANHOOD

Ed Coleridge, a tall and delicate-looking youth of 20 years, was brought to the insane ward of the county jail last night in care of Deputy Constable Sedgwick, charged with insanity. He formerly lived in Fowler, but moved to this city where his parents now live. They are respectable and well known people.

The youth, who was quite a bright boy until recently, has acted strangely during the past few weeks and entertains queer notions. His hallucinations have been so strange of late that it was deemed best to put him under restraint and have him brought before a medical board.

ALL BUT 100 ARE AT WORK

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 6.—Of the 1,400 carmen employed by the United railroads before the strike all but about 100 have returned to work.

No new men were hired today and the failure of some of the platform men to return affected some of the lines of the street car system. The company explains that many of the men are out of the city and will return as soon as they learn that the strike is off. Sixty eight cars were in operation today on the Fillmore street division.

It is expected that the three men who will arbitrate the question of hours and wages will be named tomorrow.

BIG BUNCH FOR BRIGGS AT COURT SESSION TODAY

Wearies and Drunks, With Other Culpits, Will Appear on Docket.

Judge Briggs has enough to make up a busy court session today, there being seven new cases ready, besides those of the regular court docket.

Peter Clark, the man who beat a horse belonging to the White Livery stables on J street and wounded the animal in many places, will have his hearing at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Thomas Tobeson, a rancher, came to the city with a load of lumber and his 7-year old son. He got drunk and unable to handle his team, so Officers Fair and Stevens arrested him. The team was put up at a local livery stable, while the little boy was taken care of by Mr. Webster, the druggist, outside whose place the man was arrested.

Old man John Smith needs no comment, save that he is again ready to see Judge Briggs about another overcharge of whisky. The old fellow is close upon 80 years of age, and he will probably get placed somewhere to be taken care of. He was arrested on this occasion by Officer Cronkrite.

George Scholz has acquired the whiskey habit to such an extent that no one will employ him, even in the rare intervals when he is ready to work. Officer Van Meter arrested him for loitering about the Park saloon last night on a charge of vagrancy.

William Geary and John Patrick were arrested by Officers McCall and Drenth on charges of drunkenness and disturbing the peace.

John Littlejohn was arrested two nights ago, but was left over to cool off. He will face a charge of being drunk today.

ADVENTURES OF KING ALFONSO

During one of their short trips from San Sebastian King Alfonso and his young queen had a little adventure

among the washerwomen at Arqueta, who were eating their lunch by the side of a brook at which the royal motor car had come to a stop. The king in his free, boyish way, began to chat with the women, and when, in reply to his query, they professed ignorance of his identity, he announced, "I am the king."

Laughingly, one of the women, who evidently thought he was making fun of her, replied that he could not be King Alfonso, for she had seen his majesty at Pamplona and he was handsomer than the man who stood before her.

King Alfonso laughed at the doubtful compliment, and, giving a coin to the woman, asked her if she recognized him from the likeness.

A young draper's clerk at Estella in his enthusiasm became the center of an incident which might have had exciting consequences. As the king and queen were driving slowly along the promenade, he rushed close to the carriage to take a good look at the royal couple, holding the keys of his master's premises in his hands the while. The king, acting on one of his humorous impulses, snatched the keys, the pace of the car was quickened, and the over-enthusiastic youth was left lamenting and wondering how he should explain to the master that the king had purloined his keys. The king's quick perception saved the youth from being mistaken for a assailant.—London Mail.
